Policy Statement

1. Purpose

This Acceptable Use Policy (AUP) is intended to provide a framework for use of ANS's and its subsidiary companies assets, it should be interpreted such that it has the widest application and so as to include new and developing technologies and uses, which may not be explicitly referred to.

Policy

2. Corporate Profile

It is a requirement of the ANS Terms and Conditions that all users of its network or services accept and adhere to ANS's Acceptable Use Policy (AUP) for Internet Access. ANS may change this policy to include changes in the law or in the acceptable practice of internet use and reserves the right to make such changes without notice and whenever required. All our users are responsible for ensuring that they have read and understand the current policy.

Compliance with this AUP is a contractual requirement. If you fail to observe the terms of this policy your account or service may be liable to termination or suspension. In the event that an account is suspended, ANS may be prepared, at its sole discretion, to restore the account on receipt of a written statement that the user will not commit any further abuse of the service. Any changes to re-instate service will be passed on.

ANS's relationship with its clients, its partners and other network providers depends on responsible conduct from all users. ANS will not hesitate to protect itself and other clients and networks should any form of abuse be found to be occurring.

3. Acceptable Use of Networks and the Internet

- Email
- Web usage
- Cloud
- Abuse of ANS services

Use of networks and the Internet in General:

You must not use the service for the transmission of illegal material. The user agrees to refrain from sending or receiving any materials which may be deemed to be offensive, abusive, indecent, hard-core or paedophile pornography, defamatory, obscene, menacing or otherwise as prohibited by current and future statutes in force.

Illegal use also includes where we are unable to provide services which are prohibited by current and future applicable statutes regarding sanctions.

The user agrees to refrain from sending or receiving any material which may be in breach of copyright (including Intellectual Property Rights), confidence, privacy or other rights. If you are in any doubt as to the legality of what you are doing, or propose to do, you should either take independent legal advice or cease that usage.

You should be aware that the storage, distribution of or transmission of illegal materials may lead to investigation and possible prosecution by the relevant authorities.

You must not gain or attempt to gain unauthorised access to any computer systems for any purpose. In addition to being a breach of this AUP, such action may lead to criminal prosecution under the Computer Misuse Act.

You must not send data to the internet using forged addresses or data which is deliberately designed to adversely affect remote machines (including but not limited to denial of service (DDos), worms and viruses, trojans and ping storms).

You must ensure that local PCs and network connected servers are not configured to allow open relay and must not participate in the sending of unsolicited bulk email (commonly referred to as 'spam', 'UBE', 'UCE').

You are prohibited from running 'port scanning' or other software intended to probe, scan, test the vulnerability of or access remote systems or networks except in circumstances where the remote user has given express permission for this to be done. ANS may ask for evidence of such permission.

You may not divulge your network passwords to third parties and should take all reasonable steps to ensure that such information remains confidential.

3.1. Email

Sending and receiving email involves the same responsibilities and approach as would be used when sending or receiving any other form of communication – written or printed mail, fax, telephone call etc. Most users fully understand what would be considered appropriate and acceptable when communicating with others and apply these considerations to their use of email. There are occasions when some users send mail or engage in online communication that others consider unacceptable – generally regarded as abuse by the online community.

If you find it difficult to determine what might be considered 'abuse' with online communication you should realise that, in general terms, anything that might be unacceptable, and possibly illegal, in other forms of communication will be equally unacceptable and possibly illegal online.

You should not send emails that might cause annoyance, inconvenience or anxiety to a recipient. You should not send any emails likely to cause distress or any material which is offensive, indecent, obscene, menacing or in any way unlawful.

You must not use ANS mail services or network to send email to any user who does not wish to receive it.

You must not use ANS mail services or network to send unsolicited email. In bulk (commonly known as 'spam') or individually.

You must not use ANS mail services or network with intent to deprive others of service ('mail bomb').

You must not use false mail headers or alter the headers of mail messages in such a way as to conceal the identity of the sender.

You must not use any email address that you are not authorised to use.

You must ensure that any email servers connected to the ANS network and operated by you are not configured to allow 'open relay'. Customers who abuse the ANS email service will be notified that their behaviour is unacceptable and may have their accounts suspended, terminated or blocked.

ANS reserves the right to restrict or block internet traffic to or from a Customer server, without prior notification, in the event of a failure to abide by the published terms of the Acceptable Use Policy. This may include, but not exclusively, the transmission of unsolicited email or the presence of an open mail relay.

If a customer account or service is suspended or blocked due to abuse, then service may be restored at ANS's sole discretion and generally will only be restored in receipt of a written assurance of future compliance with this Policy and in payment of an administrative charge for restoration of service.

3.2. Web Usage

Web usage includes the use of web space provided with client accounts, web hosting on ANS servers and the use of web services and space on customer colocated servers.

ANS cannot and does not proactively monitor content on any web space maintained by customers (whether customer space, web hosted or colocated services) and cannot and does not guarantee that such sites are free of illegal content or other materials that may be considered unacceptable.

You undertake sole responsibility for the content of web pages owned and or operated by you – whether on client pages, web hosted space or colocated servers – within the ANS domain or other domains hosted within the ANS network.

You undertake sole responsibility to ensure that all materials on any web site owned or operated by you contains material that you have created or have permission to use.

You undertake sole responsibility for any dispute involving Copyright or Intellectual Property Rights associated with your site or service.

You must not use your website or web service to promote or distribute any material or content that is illegal (under any current or future legislation). You should be aware that the internet is a global communications network and what may be legal in the UK may be illegal elsewhere and leave you liable to prosecution in another country. ANS may undertake investigation of content services if potential abuse is brought to its attention and reserves the right to remove any web page on our servers at any time and for any reason.

To protect ANS's network, ANS shall be entitled to temporarily block network traffic when certain defined limits in bandwidth or PPS (Packets per Second) are exceeded by you and this is deemed necessary for the operation of the ANS network. Such limits shall be determined by ANS (acting reasonably).

3.3. Cloud

You may not use any shared system provided by ANS in a way that unnecessarily interferes with the normal operation of the shared system, or that consumes a disproportionate share of the resources of the system. For example, we may require you to repair coding abnormalities in your Cloud-hosted code if it unnecessarily conflicts with other Cloud customers' use of the Cloud.

You may not store on or via the service illegal material. You agree to refrain from storing any materials which may be deemed to be offensive, abusive, indecent, hard-core or paedophile pornography, defamatory, obscene, menacing or otherwise as prohibited by current and future statutes in force.

3.4. Abuse of ANS Services – Action by ANS

Please address all complaints about abuse of ANS services to abuse@ans.co.uk.

ANS reserves the right to investigate suspected or potential abuse of its Acceptable Use Policy. If we become aware of possible abuse, either through our own investigations or through referral by another user or by a third party, we may begin an investigation that may include gathering information from all potential parties and materials on our servers. ANS reserves the right to suspend accounts or access during such investigations and/or to remove materials from servers (on a temporary or permanent basis). All actions will be determined on an individual basis and will not be taken to form any precedent.

ANS customers who engage in abuse of the network, the cloud and/or the internet will be notified that their behaviour is unacceptable and may have their accounts suspended or terminated if such abuse continues. If a customer account or service is suspended or blocked due to abuse, then service may be restored at ANS's sole discretion and generally will only be restored on receipt of a written assurance of future compliance with this Policy and on payment of an administrative charge for restoration of service.

All ANS users acknowledge that ANS may be required by current or future legislation to access, store, copy or otherwise Customer data stored within or transmitted by our service. By accepting this Acceptable Use Policy you expressly agree that we may access and use your personal data or other account information in connection with any such investigation and may disclose such data to any third party who has a legitimate interest in the data, investigation or outcome.

ANS reserves the right to terminate service, with immediate effect and without further obligation or liability to Customers, as required by any law enforcement authority or by the Courts of the United Kingdom.

4. Regulation of Investigatory Powers

ANS undertakes to take action required under the provisions of the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000, and Investigatory Powers Act 2016, and will fully cooperate with the appropriate UK authorities.
